GUEST SPEAKER: Angie Hinkel of Kidsafe spoke about the One-On-One Mentoring Program. Angie spoke about the benefits of being a Mentor to a young adult and the dire need of participating male role models. The program is a 1 year commitment of at least a 1 hour visit 3 times a month with your assigned young adult (ages 14-21 years of age) and 1 phone call to them on a weekly basis. The time spent with the youth may be things such as going to a sporting event, teaching them basic car repairs, yard work, household chores, etc. These youths need role models that will help improve self esteem, family relations, development skills and social skills. For more information about becoming a mentor, please contact Angie Hinkel at Kidsafe.
